Growing up in the 60's was a memorable time for us baby boomers. Our problems, well, I don't remember having any problems. Drive-in movies, drag-racing, spending days at the beach; "we had it made in the shade" – I bought my 1955 Black Chevy 2-door post, model 150 with radius rear fender wells and hood scoop in 1967. After several years of racing at the local drag-strips and having fun around town, I sold it to a guy and believe it to have ended up as the featured car in American Graffiti. I would recognize that hood scoop anywhere... For you officiates; I built a balanced 327 with 11:1 forged pistons, steel crankshaft, Howard aluminum rods, Corvette camel-backs, racing v-springs, Mallory dual-point distributor, Sig-Erson 505 Cam, Edelbrock dual-quad aluminum intake with Carter AFBs, (I tried factory Corvette fuel-injection which sounded great, but didn't perform). I then rebuilt a Muncie M21 4-speed, added a Shafer aluminum flywheel with 11" clutch assembly and Pontiac rear-end. This baby would rev to just over 8,000 RPM and radically idled at 2500.
